OVERVIEW

This document outlines our agreed rules for safe and effective use of data from the Midland Trauma System Registry. It identifies:

- Use of data
- Access to data
- Data storage and security
- Publication and authorship
- Dispute resolution, and
- Legal Terms of Use.

It is expected that all data users understand and abide by the MTS Data Use Policy and Terms of Use.

The primary reference document for this policy is Waikato District Health Board Research Policy #0142. Every attempt has been made to ensure that this document is compliant with all existing policies of the Midland Hospitals, however it is the responsibility of researchers to understand policies referenced in this document as well as any local policies that pertain to research activities in specific DHBs.

This policy is authorised by the Chief Executive Officers of DHBs contributing to MTS and is referenced in the MOUs with other contributing organisations. For further reference documents see Appendix 1.

INTRODUCTION

Background

The Midland Trauma System (MTS) was established in 2010 and consists of a network of specialised clinical personnel based in each of the five Midland District Health Boards (DHBs) Lakes DHB; Taranaki DHB; Hauora Tairāwhiti DHB; Bay of Plenty DHB; Waikato DHB. Clinical personnel in the 5 districts are supported by a central hub group that administers the MTS and the Midland Trauma Registry (MTR).

MTS Vision

The health of our Midland communities will be improved by reducing the burden of trauma.

MTS Mission

The Midland Trauma System will improve clinical trauma care, reduce incidence of injury and enable safer, more efficient systems along the trauma journey.

MTS Values

Our work is be guided by our beliefs and commitments to our values.

- Patients First                      The needs of patients guide our actions
- Communication                    Open, honest, helpful
- Collaboration                      Together we achieve more
- Excellence                         Quality care and information
- Forward Looking                  Integrity, diversity, creativity

The MTS has four main aims:

1. Improve the delivery of high quality clinical care to trauma patients.
2. Develop implement and maintain regional trauma system infrastructure.
3. Support injury prevention and awareness.
4. Establish a Trauma Quality Improvement Program (TQIP) to enable evidence-based change.

The MTS has many functions related to trauma care in the Midland region. One of these is to securely collect detailed trauma information on all patients admitted to Midland hospitals.

This information is collected to:

1. To support service provision and development
2. Research
3. Support quality improvement activities at hospital, DHB, community and regional level by;
  - Providing data for clinical audit
  - Providing clinical decision support
  - Providing data for development of guidance documents and policies
  - Enabling reporting of agreed key performance indicators

Governance

The MTS Operational Group reports to the MTS strategic group and includes all members of MTS and has functional links with many agencies and organisations dedicated to reducing the burden of trauma on our communities.

The MTS is governed by the MTS Strategic Group that has membership at multiple governance levels across the Midland DHBs.

The Midland Trauma Registry

The Midland Trauma Registry (MTR) is a web based application that utilizes Collector™ software as the portal for data entry. The MTR allows detailed analysis of injury events, patient factors, processes in care and outcomes.

From July 2015 the MTS also hosts the New Zealand Major Trauma Registry (NZMTR) for the Major Trauma National Clinical Network (MTNCN).

Privacy and Safety Principles which underpin the Midland Trauma System

Registry data is an extension of the clinical records of patients, and we have a shared responsibility to ensure that we handle it safely at all times. Data will only be available to persons or organisations that are authorised to receive patient information.

MTS operates within a “5 Safes” framework to ensure that data use is appropriate. This includes;

- Safe people
- Safe projects
- Safe settings
- Safe data
- Safe output

The MTR complies with relevant District Health Boards (DHB) policy related to research and data use and fulfils the National Health Information Security Framework (HISO 10029:2015) requirements meeting national standards for data privacy and security.

Data Use Principles

The following principles of data responsibility have been endorsed by the MTS Strategic Group and Memorandum of Understanding with other contributing organisations.

- 1) DHBs supply patient data to MTS
- 2) DHBs have access to all their data
- 3) MTS is the guardian of that data and will ensure privacy, security and sovereignty of that data on behalf of the DHBs.
- 4) DHBs can authorize anyone else to use their data.
- 5) DHBs must gain permission to use any other DHBs data.
- 6) Data users must abide by general rules of data privacy and security.
- 7) Data users must respect the ownership and sovereignty of the DHBs over their own data.
- 8) In situations where there may be interference or duplication in data use, the DHB has priority.
- 9) Data users must appropriately acknowledge the origin of the data in all authorized reports, publications or representations of that data and inform the DHBs of their intention.

The Midland Trauma Research Centre

Trauma Data in the MTS registry can be reported on directly by MTS hub staff or be processed and analysed via the Midland Trauma Research Centre (MTRC) for research purposes.

The MTRC is governed by MTS and guided by a steering group consisting of clinical, academic and administrative staff, along with community representatives. It aims to rationalise research activity and is a central focus point for researchers and funding bodies to initiate and complete high quality research. The research centre can advise and support researchers to ensure that research output is well planned and appropriate to the ethos and direction of MTS.

MTS is committed to reducing the burden of trauma on the Midland communities and will nurture and support initiatives by researchers from those communities to produce high quality research.

DATA USE POLICY

1. Guardianship of data

All DHBs have open access to the data that they have supplied. In Midland DHBs this occurs via their local trauma services.

The MTS provides guardianship for this information and has responsibility for its safe use; refer to appendix 2, Legal Terms of Use.

In situations where there may be interference or duplication in data use, the DHB of origin of the data has priority.

2. Use of District Data

DHBs collect data from within their facilities therefore no authorisation is required for the return of this data back to the DHB. All trauma data will be returned to the DHB via the trauma service that collected and submitted the data. Subsequent use of the data remains pursuant to this Data Use Policy and Terms of Use.

DHBs can authorise anyone to use their data but no DHB may use another DHBs data or give it to a third party without the permission of that DHB.

3. Use of Regional Data

Collection and use of Midland regional data has been authorised by the MTS Strategic Group. The MTS Strategic Group has given the Director of MTS the authority to release regional data for specific projects. Researchers should discuss their proposals with their local MTS personnel prior to data requests being submitted. Details on this process are available on the MTS website.

Extraction of bulk data from MTS can potentially lead to duplication, confusion, and unnecessary vulnerability to MTS, hence will generally not be supported. MTS uses a project-based strategy for data use. This maintains the essential context and security of information for maximum benefit and lowest risk.

DHBs have access to their own data and are expected to utilise MTS resources to enhance the efficient use of data for research purposes.

4. Use of Non-MTS Data

The use of non-MTS data is the responsibility of the submitting DHB. MTS requires authorisation from all participating DHBs prior to any release of their trauma data.

The use of aggregated major trauma data submitted to the MTNCN is covered by the NZMTR Data Use Policy.

5. Public Access to Data

The data is not accessible to the public

6. Data Access Process

Data can be requested through a formal data request process. Requests will be prioritised and actioned through the MTS hub and MTRC.

7. Documentation and Security of Data

The MTS database is held on a secure server at Waikato DHB. This system complies with the National Health Information Security Framework (HISO 10029:2015) and meets national standards for data privacy and security.

As a rule only de-identified data will be released unless appropriate ethics approval has been obtained.

It is essential for the maximum use and protection of the data both now and in the future that copies of all extracted datasets and analyses are fully documented in such a way that they can be understood by others who may obtain permission to use them.

All copies of data must be kept secure and used only for authorised purposes. Only data that has been authorised for particular purposes should be used. Once the project for which that data has been extracted is complete, the data must be destroyed.

8. General Policy Relating to Publication

Research utilising MTS data is expected to result in publications in scholarly journals, monographs, books or other appropriate report formats. Publication timelines will be determined for all proposed analyses. It is expected the researchers will keep the MTS informed of progress, content and timelines. This will provide checks and balances of methodology, context, content, authorship, information security, and interpretation of analyses. Failure to submit work for publication by agreed dates will result in review of the agreed access to data and authorship of the work. Publication dates and a copy of the final product must be given to the MTS well in advance of the publication

If conditions for use of data have been breached MTS reserves the right to withdraw authorisation.

9. Authorship

In cases of funded project reports the MTS will be the author for the project's primary publications. Subsequent reports and scientific papers submitted for publication will generally have authors listed by name. In these cases the researcher who leads the work resulting in the submission of the work for publication will usually write the first draft of the manuscript and be the first author. All authors must meet the criteria for co-authorship. It is the responsibility of the first author and a project's Principal Investigator(s) to discuss authorship with all co-authors in the initial stages of a paper's preparation. Any disputes will be referred to the MTS Director for resolution.

Consistent with the requirements of academic journals the research group adopts the following authorship policy:

Each author should have participated sufficiently in the work to take public responsibility for the content. Authorship credit should be based on substantial contributions to:

- (a) Conception and design or analysis and interpretation of data; and to
- (b) Drafting the article or revising it critically for important intellectual content; and on
- (c) Final approval of the version to be published.

Conditions (a), (b) and (c) must all be met. Participation solely in the acquisition of funding, the collection of data or general supervision of the research does not justify authorship. Others contributing to the work should be recognised in the Acknowledgements.

To enhance the cycle of quality improvement, consequences and communications regarding published work should be well known to MTS. For this reason, the corresponding author address should generally be associated with MTS. This should be defined by the Principal investigator and chair of MTS prior to publication.

10. Acknowledgements

Data users that have involved MTS data and personnel in projects must clearly acknowledge the origin of the data and contribution of MTS in all authorized reports, publications or representations of that data. They must use the MTS official logos on presented material. These can be supplied in digital form by MTS hub staff.

11. Disputes

A project's Principal Investigator(s) is responsible for ensuring the overall conduct of a project. In the first instance any project disputes should be referred to the Principal Investigator(s) for clarification. In the event of an unresolved dispute the Principal Investigator(s) will consult with the MTS Director. The MTS Director will facilitate resolution of the dispute and will involve other members of the MTS and appropriate advisory groups in the process. If this is not possible the MTS Director will take responsibility for the final decision and will document in detail the different perspectives in the dispute and the reasons for all related decisions.

- 11.1. With regard to any dispute involving Maori specific issues the Maori co-investigators will inform and seek the advice of the Maori advisory group. This advice shall be forwarded to the Principal Investigator(s) and MTS chair who shall work conjointly with the Maori co-investigators to resolve the dispute.
- 11.2. With regard to any dispute involving Pacific specific issues the Pacific co-investigators will inform and seek the advice of the Pacific advisory group. This advice shall be forwarded to the Principal Investigator(s) and MTS chair who shall work conjointly with the Pacific co-investigators to resolve the dispute.
